Dear Colleagues and Guests,

On behalf of the entire Board of HLNY, I welcome you to our 2017 Annual Gala and Awards Program. We are very pleased that you could join us this evening to support HLNY, network with your peers, and honor our 2017 Award of Distinction Honoree, Dr. Ram Raju, MD, MBA, FACS, FACHE. Dr. Raju was selected based on his passion for health care, dedication to diversity, networking, mentoring, and desire to give back through community service. He has always been inspiring to me and I am grateful for his support of HLNY. It is a pleasure and an honor to gather in recognition of Dr. Raju's contributions, and tonight, we are proud to honor him with the HLNY Award of Distinction.

His contributions have expanded the reach of ACHE and HLNY through highly effective efforts to bring new members to the organization. Dear Colleagues,

Tonight is the 28th annual award gala. This is a time for some reflection and storytelling. It has been said that times of reflection are times for questions. A part of the Jewish tradition is to ask 4 questions. Let me start by borrowing the first question and adding some of my own. Some of you may recognize and follow the theme.

The Questions:

1. Q. Why is this night different from all other nights?
A. This night is different because there are many times during the year that HLNY and ACHE provide opportunities for networking as part of an educational program. Tonight we gather to reconnect with our old friends and colleagues. This event is one of the best opportunities for people to catch up on each other's personal and professional activities. This night is different, take advantage of it.
2. Q. Why on this night do we eat standing up?
A. We eat standing up so we can freely move around the room and see as many people as possible in the 90 minutes we have for networking.
3. Q. Why on this night do we talk as much as we eat?
A. We talk as much as we eat because this event is about communication, although the food is always good. If you can't think of anything to talk about, talk about the food.
4. Q. Why on this night do we welcome those we do not yet know?
A. We welcome those we do not yet know because they are often the early careerists working to find their way in our profession. The senior ones in the room must be welcomed too because they have much wisdom to share.
5. Q. Why on this night do we give speeches and awards?
A. We give speeches and awards because it is important to recognize and share the accomplishments of our colleagues. Our profession uniquely provides us with the opportunity to improve the lives of our patients.

Every day we all show up at work but this is more than a job. Every day we go to meetings but this is more than a discussion. Every day we make decisions but this is more than having choices. Every day people rely on us but this is more than being dependable. Every day what we do affects our patients' lives as well as the lives of our employees and their families. This is an awesome responsibility that requires a lifelong commitment to professional and personal growth. What we do is not a job or even a career, it is a calling. Nobody can carry this responsibility alone. We must come together as teammates, as colleagues and as people. Invest some time tonight to meet new colleagues. It is important that we all work together.

Enjoy the fellowship this evening has to offer and be sure to take care of each other.

Best Wishes,

Solomon Torres

2017 Award of Distinction

RAM RAJU, MD, MBA, FACS, FACHE

Senior Vice President and Community Health Investment Officer
Northwell Health, New York

Dr. Ram Raju joined Northwell Health, the largest healthcare provider in the state of New York, is a system with 21 hospitals and 550 outpatient facilities sees 2 million people every year in the New York metro area and beyond in January of 2017. In his role, Raju is to set the strategic vision to improve the population health by finding ways to meet the needs of Northwell's most vulnerable communities, by examining the existing programs aimed at improving the health system's response to the community's needs and working with local organizations to address them.

Prior to joining Northwell Dr. Raju was the President and CEO of NYC health and Hospital Corporation, the largest Public Health System in the country. Dr. Raju was appointed by New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio in January 2014 to lead the 37,000 employees of this $7.3 billion corporation, which includes 11 acute care hospitals, five nursing homes, six large diagnostic and treatment centers, more than 70 community-based health centers, a large home care agency, and one of the New York area's largest providers of government-sponsored health insurance, MetroPlus Health Plan, the plan of choice for nearly half a million New Yorkers. Last year, HHC facilities served 1.4 million New Yorkers – including more than 475,000 uninsured. During his tenure he rebranded HHC, Implemented EPIC EMR, set a new vision for HHC, and successfully managed Ebola crisis in NYC.

Dr. Raju served as the Chief Executive Officer for the Cook County Health & Hospitals System (CCHHS) in Chicago, Illinois, the third largest public health system in the country from 2011 to 2014. During his tenure there, Dr. Raju turned the financial status of the system around, improving the cash flow by over 100 million dollars. His proposed healthcare delivery model fetched the much coveted 1115 Waiver to the Social Security Act, enabling the creation of CountyCare, an Illinois Medicaid program to provide coverage for low-income adults in Cook County, and leading to health coverage for more than 182,000 Cook County residents. Dr. Raju's further recognition that patients are more likely to use care they can access near their home resulted in the development of a network of more than 130 primary care access points through partnerships with FQHCs, safety-net and community hospitals, academic medical centers and private doctors.

Dr. Raju began his medical career at Lutheran Medical Center in Brooklyn and went on to serve as the COO and Medical Director at HHC's Coney Island Hospital. Then in 2006, he became the HHC Chief Medical Officer, Corporate Chief Operating Officer and Executive Vice President. While he served there, HHC continued to climb and reach great heights in quality, patient safety and healthcare data transparency.

Dr. Raju attended Madras Medical College to earn his medical diploma and his Master of Surgery degree. He underwent further training in England and was elected as a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons. Dr. Raju is also a physician executive, having obtained an MBA from the University of Tennessee and CPE from the American College of Physician Executives.

He served on many local, regional and national organizations including as past Vice-Chair of the Greater New York Hospital Association (GNYHA), as board of Trustees of America's Essential Hospitals and Healthcare Association of NY State (HANYS). He is president-elect of Asian Health Care Leaders Association (AHCLA) and Board Trustee of the American Hospital Association (AHA). He was appointed to the NYC Board of Health by Mayor of NYC. He is a trustee of NY Academy of Medicine and a board member of NYS Office of Professional Conduct. His community activities include member of the board of Community Board 2 and Iron Hills Civic Association

Dr. Raju is also the recipient of numerous national recognitions. In 2014 2015 & 2016 he was on Modern Healthcare's list of the nation's "100 Most Influential People in Healthcare." Modern Healthcare also named him consecutively as one of the "Top 25 Minority Executives in Healthcare" in 2012, 2014 & 2016 and one of the "50 Most Influential Physician Executives in Healthcare" in 2013, 2014 2015 & 2016. In 2013, he was named a Business Leader of Color by Chicago United. Also in 2013 and 2014, Becker's Hospital Review designated him as one of "20 Hospital and Health System Leaders to Follow on Twitter." and one of the top Physician HealthCare leaders in the country.

Recognition is bestowed at three levels based on a range of specific volunteer activities that demonstrate leadership and contributions to furthering professional excellence. All active ACHE affiliates are eligible to be recognized.

The ACHE Recognition Program is based on points accrued through volunteer activities performed in a convocation year (April-March). Points begin to accrue for affiliates beginning with the 2003-2004 convocation year and are cumulative from year to year.

An affiliate does not need to achieve a set number of points in a single year, but rather points will build over time. In that manner, affiliates have the opportunity to progress through the three award levels.

The three award levels are:

- Exemplary Service Award = 125 points
- Distinguished Service Award = 75 points
- Service Award = 30 points

Of the 1,600+ HLNY members, 62 members received 1-star/Service award, 12 members received 2-stars, Distinguished award and 5 members received 3-stars/Exemplary Service award.

Higher Education Network

The Higher Education Network (HEN) is collaboration between ACHE and higher education programs in healthcare administration. The HEN is designed to broaden students' knowledge of the various opportunities in career advancement, including networking, continuous education, ACHE membership and participation in mentorship, and scholarship and fellowship programs offered by ACHE.

The goal of the ACHE Regent's Advisory Council is to make an annual visit to all representative schools in the network to share information with the students on benefits of being a member of ACHE and the local chapter. Currently, the New York Metro HEN is headed by ACHE Regent Solomon Torres, FACHE. In addition to completing these annual visits, HLNY has also successfully collaborated with various HEN programs to provide career oriented mentoring events.

During the visits, HEN's speakers advise students on the importance of continuous education and networking, which can be ultimately be achieved through participation in ACHE and the local ACHE chapter. Students are encouraged to attend educational programs, ask questions, become an active volunteer with ACHE or the local chapter, and build their presence in the professional community.
